Web Technology Made Simple tutorials

Introducing: YourPracticeSilver a complete web service from docWebTRC

There are a lot of Web Design companies out there who want to build you a beautiful web site.

While most web design firms are thinking about the latest flash or streaming video technology, at docWebTRC™ we spend our time thinking about HIPPA, ePrescribe™, integration with lab results, voice response systems, software vendors, pharmaceutical companies and all the major insurers.

With a YourPracticeSilver web solution, you get more than a beautiful exterior. We build sites that will grow with your practice and will adapt to new technologies and new legal requirements. We GUARANTEE that every function we build in the future will work with the site that we build for you today.

And docWebTRC™ makes it easy.... We get your domain name, design, build and host your site, and we maintain your site (no matter how many times you want it changed). Your site is secure, has unlimited e-mail addresses and more space and bandwidth than you will ever need.

Your new web solution can help your practice out today - whether it is cutting down on phone support, bringing you new patients or just keeping up with competition.

The YourPractice family of web solutions are designed to grow as your internet usage grows and your practice changes. Help for you today — and tomorrow.

In the future, your website will be able to accept prescription refill requests, interact with your appointment application and someday interact with medical devices right in the homes of your patients.

At the end of the day, you want your web site to be ready to use those technologies to increase your revenues and control your costs. You want a web solution from docWebTRC™.
